Access and Recreation Strategy

Introduction and context

The Corporation of London manages over 11,000 acres of stunning open spaces including 58,000 ancient trees, six Sites of Special Scientific Interest and three National Nature Reserves. These open spaces deliver a wide range of 'ecosystem services' such as timber, food, biodiversity, carbon capture and storage, flood mitigation, air purification, and health and wellbeing benefits. The total economic value of these benefits is estimated to be £30-£40 million per year. The sites capture thousands of tonnes of carbon and attract an estimated 25 million visitors annually.

The Natural Environment Division forms part of the City of London Corporation's Environment Department. We manage nine Charities, through which our open spaces are governed and whose objects reflect our vision. Our management of open spaces and assets supports the role of London as a world-class city. We work with local authorities, statutory and Government agencies, special interest groups, schools, businesses, community groups, residents and people who are not typically represented. By reaching out to these wider communities, we seek to ensure our long-term relevance.

The Natural Environment Strategies set out the City of London Corporation's strategic approach to our managed open spaces, assets and activities. They build upon over 150 years of stewardship of open spaces across London and the South-East. They explain the importance of the natural environment to the achievement of economic, societal and environmental outcomes described in our Corporate Plan 2024-29. They describe why we all need to act now and our proposed approach during the next five years. The Strategies describe our objectives for the natural environment and the measures by which we will assess our performance against those objectives. The Strategies will inform our business plans and management plans and set out how our activities will align with corporate and regional priorities and policies.

Purpose

Our iconic and exemplary open spaces and heritage assets have provided enjoyment, recreation and well-being to millions of visitors for nearly 150 years. As visitor numbers continue to grow, preserving the fundamental benefits these spaces provide to our communities, alongside protecting and enhancing their environment and biodiversity, is increasingly a challenging balance. This strategy provides key objectives to direct how we can both welcome visitors and continue to protect our special, historic, and biodiverse sites and assets for the future.

A photograph of a person with red hair, wearing a dark blue hoodie and dark pants, walking away from the camera on a dirt path. They are holding a leash for a large, shaggy brown and white dog. The path is surrounded by tall grass and numerous small purple flowers. In the background, there are dense green trees and bushes. The lighting suggests it's late afternoon or early morning, with long shadows and warm light.

How will the strategy be implemented?

This strategy will be implemented via Divisional business plans and through other relevant Corporation strategies and plans such as the Sports Strategy. New income generation opportunities will be developed, and external grants will be sought to contribute to the resourcing of activity.

Cross-cutting themes

Income generation and financial sustainability, encouraging visitors to give back through well planned campaigns and fit for purpose mechanisms. Working towards cost neutral recreational provision. Creating new areas of income generation and maximising current income streams.

Working in partnership, community engagement and volunteering.
